

CONTENTS

List of Illustrations	xvii
About the Author	xxv
Preface	xxviii
Acknowledgments	xxxvi

PART 1 OVERVIEW 1

1 The Origins of Genocide 3

Genocide in prehistory, antiquity, and early modernity	3
The Vendée uprising	9
Zulu genocide	11
Naming genocide: Raphael Lemkin	11
Defining genocide: The UN Convention	17
Bounding genocide: Comparative genocide studies	22
Discussion	28
What is destroyed in genocide?	39
Multiple and overlapping identities	45
Dynamism and contingency	48
The question of genocidal intent	49
Contested cases of genocide	51
Atlantic slavery—and after	51
Area bombing and nuclear warfare	53
The Biafra war	57
UN sanctions against Iraq	59
9/11: Terrorism as genocide?	60
Structural and institutional violence	62
Is genocide ever justified?	64
Further study	67
Notes	70

2 State and Empire; War and Revolution	88
The state, imperialism, and genocide	90
Imperial famines	92
The Congo “rubber terror”	98
The Japanese in East and Southeast Asia	100
The US in Indochina	102
The Soviets in Afghanistan	106
Imperial ascent and dissolution	111
Genocide and war	117
The First World War and the dawn of industrial death	122
The Second World War and the “barbarization of warfare”	124
Genocide and social revolution	126
The nuclear revolution and “omnicide”	128
Further study	130
Notes	132
PART 2 CASES	145
3 Genocides of Indigenous Peoples	147
Introduction	147
Colonialism and the discourse of extinction	148
The conquest of the Americas	150
Spanish America	150
The United States and Canada	153
Other genocidal strategies	160
Australia’s Aborigines and the Namibian Hereros	163
Genocide in Australia	163
The Herero genocide	165
Denying genocide, celebrating genocide	169
Complexities and caveats	170
Indigenous revival	173
Further study	176
Notes	178
The genocide of Guatemala’s Mayans	187
4 The Ottoman Destruction of Christian Minorities	200
Introduction	200
Origins of the genocide	202
War, deportation, and massacre	205
The Armenian genocide	206
The Assyrian genocide	215
The Pontian Greek genocide	225
Aftermath: Attempts at justice	229
Turkey: Denial . . . and growing recognition	231

Further study	239
Notes	240
Iraq, Syria, and the rise of Islamic State (IS)	250
5 Stalin and Mao	258
The Soviet Union and Stalinism	259
1917: The Bolsheviks seize power	259
Collectivization and famine	262
The Gulag	267
The Great Purge of 1937–1938	270
The war years	272
The destruction of national minorities	275
China and Maoism	282
Stalin, Mao, and genocide	296
Further study	298
Notes	300
Chechnya	310
6 The Jewish Holocaust	318
Introduction	318
Origins	319
“Ordinary Germans” and the Nazis	323
The turn to mass murder	325
Debating the Holocaust	340
Intentionalists vs. functionalists	340
Jewish resistance	344
The Allies and the churches: Could the Jews have been saved?	345
Willing executioners?	347
Israel, the Palestinians, and the Holocaust	349
Is the Jewish Holocaust “uniquely unique”?	353
Further study	355
Notes	358
The Nazis’ other victims	368
7 Cambodia and the Khmer Rouge	392
Origins of the Khmer Rouge	392
War and revolution, 1970–1975	395
A genocidal ideology	397
A policy of “urbicide,” 1975	400
“Base people” vs. “New people”	400
Cambodia’s Holocaust, 1975–1979	402
Genocide against Buddhists and ethnic minorities	408
Aftermath: Politics and the quest for justice	411
Further study	415

Notes	416
Indonesia and East Timor	419
8 Bosnia and Kosovo	432
Origins and onset	432
Gendercide and genocide in Bosnia	438
The international dimension	439
Kosovo, 1998–1999	444
Aftermaths	446
Images of Kosovo	451
Further study	452
Notes	453
Genocide in Bangladesh	457
9 Genocide in Africa's Great Lakes Region	470
The African Great Lakes countries in regional context	471
Rwanda, 1994: horror and shame	473
Background to genocide	474
Genocidal frenzy	478
Congo and Africa's "first world war"	487
1996–1997: The "genocide of the camps"	488
The Second Congo war	491
The Burundian imbroglio	494
Great Lakes aftermaths	498
Further study	502
Notes	503
Darfur, South Sudan, South Kordofan	511
Photo Essay	P1
PART 3 SOCIAL SCIENCE PERSPECTIVES	525
10 Psychological Perspectives	527
Narcissism, greed, fear, humiliation	528
Narcissism	528
Greed	531
Fear	534
Humiliation	539
The psychology of perpetrators	541
The Milgram experiments	542
The Stanford prison experiments	546
The psychology of rescuers	548

Further study	560
Notes	561
11 The Sociology and Anthropology of Genocide	572
Introduction	572
Sociological perspectives	573
The sociology of modernity	573
Ethnicity and ethnic conflict	577
Ethnic conflict and violence “specialists”	580
“Middleman minorities”	583
Anthropological perspectives	585
Further study	594
Notes	596
12 Political Science and International Relations	602
Empirical investigations	603
The changing face of war	607
Democracy, war, and genocide/democide	611
Norms and prohibition regimes	614
Further study	620
Notes	621
13 Gendering Genocide	625
Gendercide vs. root-and-branch genocide	626
Women as genocidal targets	632
Gendercidal institutions	635
Genocidal men, genocidal women	640
A note on gendered propaganda	646
Further study	649
Notes	650
PART 4 THE FUTURE OF GENOCIDE	661
14 Memory, Forgetting, and Denial	663
Contested memories: three cases	664
I. Germany	664
II. Japan	669
III. Argentina	673
Forgetting	677
Genocide denial: Motives and strategies	683
Denial and free speech	686
Further study	689
Notes	690

15 Justice, Truth, and Redress	697
Leipzig, Constantinople, Nuremberg, Tokyo	698
The international criminal tribunals: Yugoslavia and Rwanda	705
Juridical contributions	708
National trials	712
The “mixed tribunals”: Cambodia and Sierra Leone	714
Another kind of justice: Rwanda’s gacaca experiment	715
The Pinochet case	718
The International Criminal Court (ICC)	720
International citizens’ tribunals	723
Truth and reconciliation	724
The challenge of redress	734
The role of apology	736
Further study	737
Notes	739
16 Strategies of Intervention and Prevention	749
Warning signs	751
Humanitarian intervention	760
Sanctions	761
The United Nations	762
When is military intervention justified?	763
A standing “peace army”?	770
Ideologies and individuals	784
The role of the honest witness	785
Ideologies, religious and secular	788
Personal responsibility	794
Conclusion	796
Further study	797
Notes	799
Index	809